Jackson Lamb PhD

London, UK | jackson.lamb@example.com | sloughhouse.example.com | github.com/jackson-lamb-example

Résumé

Summary

Senior intelligence officer with decades of experience finding the one detail everyone else missed. Turns incomplete records into decisions by morning. Low tolerance for meetings, dashboards and optimism.

Experience

Head of Department, Slough House, MI5 (Security Service), London 2008 – present

- Run a department of officers no one else wanted, and get results anyway.
- Traced a leak through three years of building access logs with SQL and Python.
- Briefed senior management in under a minute, often against their wishes.

Field Officer, Berlin Station 1984 – 1991

- Ran sources across the Wall; most of them are still alive.

Education

PhD, Intelligence and Security Studies, University of Slough 2015

Skills

Data: Python, SQL, R, cross-referencing access logs.

Tradecraft: Surveillance detection, interrogation, knowing who is lying.

Other: Selective hearing, strategic napping.

Placeholder résumé for the LaTeX Application Kit examples. Jackson Lamb is a fictional character from Mick Herron's Slough House novels and the TV series Slow Horses.